

MENSA RESEARCH JOURNAL Guidelines for Authors

The following guidelines apply to previously unpublished manuscripts submitted for review toward possible publication in the Mensa Research Journal.

1. Eligibility. Neither membership in Mensa nor residence in the United States is required, and neither will influence editorial decisions.
2. Topics. Mensa Research Journal (MRJ) considers for publication: (a) Reports of quantitative, qualitative, and other types of formal research into the development, nurturance, measurement, analysis, disorder, or decline of intelligence, however defined [especially, but not exclusively, high intelligence]; (b) Research related to identification of — or educational, emotional, or other aspects of — gifted or talented children or adults; and (c) Interpretive or evaluative surveys of published research on any topic specified in (a) and (b).

Theoretical, philosophical or other types of articles directly related to the major interests cited in the preceding paragraph. Those interests may be considered, but only if a one-page inquiry is first mailed to Executive Editor, Mensa Research Journal, 1229 Corporate Drive West, Arlington TX 76006-6103, USA or emailed to MRJChair@foundation.us.mensa.org.

3. Manuscripts.
 - a. Language. Manuscripts must be in American or British English.
 - b. Submission. If paper copies are submitted, two copies are required: typed or printed, double-spaced, on white paper 8.5 inches wide by 11 inches long with 1-inch margins all around. An electronic submission should be on a CD or diskette, in a recent version of Microsoft Word. Spreadsheets must be in a recent version of Excel. Graphics may be in a recent version of pdf, jpg, tif, or eps. Graphics should be at least 300 dpi and a minimum size of 4" x 6".
 - c. Style. The best guidance on general format, forms of citation, etc., can be obtained by carefully examining a few recent issues of the Mensa Research Journal. Preferably, manuscripts will conform to the style manual of the American Medical Association or the American Psychological Association. The cover letter of manuscripts conforming to a different style manual should identify the style manual completely [title, edition, author(s), publisher's name and address, date of publication, and, if available, the ISBN].
 - d. Length. Manuscripts may not exceed 25,000 words, including the abstract, list of references, etc. An approximate word count (preferably computer generated) should appear at the top of page 1 of the paper and

e. Format. The number of each page should appear at the bottom right. The name of the primary author should appear at the top right of each page. Page 1 should show the title at about mid-page, followed on the next line by the name, affiliation, address, telephone number, and e-mail address of the primary author.

f. Timeline. The process from submission to acceptance or rejection of a manuscript may take several months. Any submitted manuscript not meeting initial review for quality research, appropriate topic and format, or writing style and language will be rejected without going to reviewers. The author will be notified, but the manuscript will not be returned.

g. Quality. Any manuscript not satisfying the initial review for quality, relevance, language, and writing style will not qualify for further review (scrutiny by peer-group reviewers).

h. Color. Due to the high cost of color print, the use of color within the manuscript will be carefully reviewed for feasibility of conversion to black and white graphics or font/format contrast changes to convey the same information. Color, however, will not disqualify a manuscript, but may delay the publication of an accepted manuscript.
